01
CONTEXT

VACA MUERTA

Vaca Muerta is a geological formation in Argentina spanning the provinces of Neuquén, Río Negro, La Pampa and Mendoza. It holds the world's second-largest unconventional gas reserves and fourth-largest unconventional oil reserves.

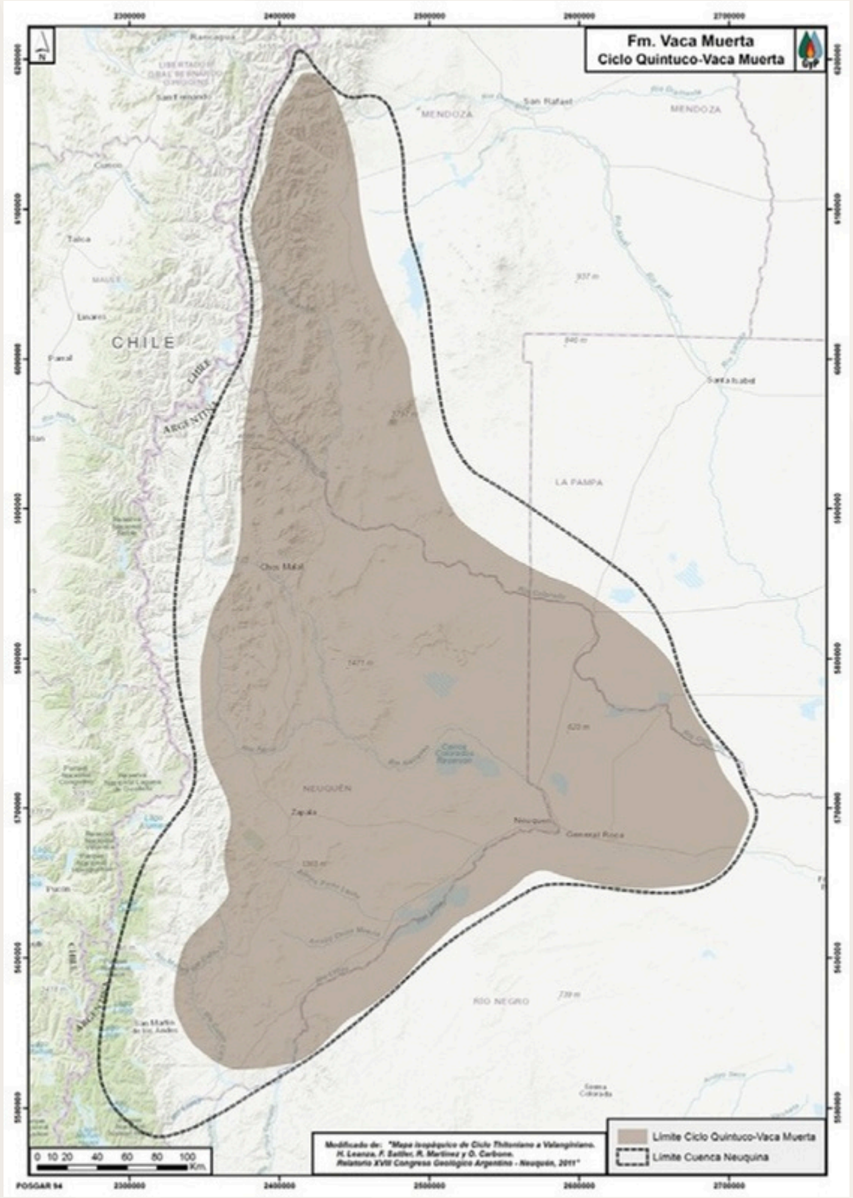

2030 PROJECTIONS:

140 MILLION

M^3 OF GAS PER DAY

750,000

BARRELS OF OIL PER DAY

WHY INVEST IN VACA MUERTA?

ABUNDANT RESERVES

Vaca Muerta holds the world's second-largest unconventional gas reserves and fourth-largest unconventional oil reserves, ahead of countries such as Russia and Venezuela.

LONG-TERM OUTLOOK

With only 8% of its potential tapped, Vaca Muerta is projected to offer 50 to 100 years of future work.

REAL ESTATE DEMAND

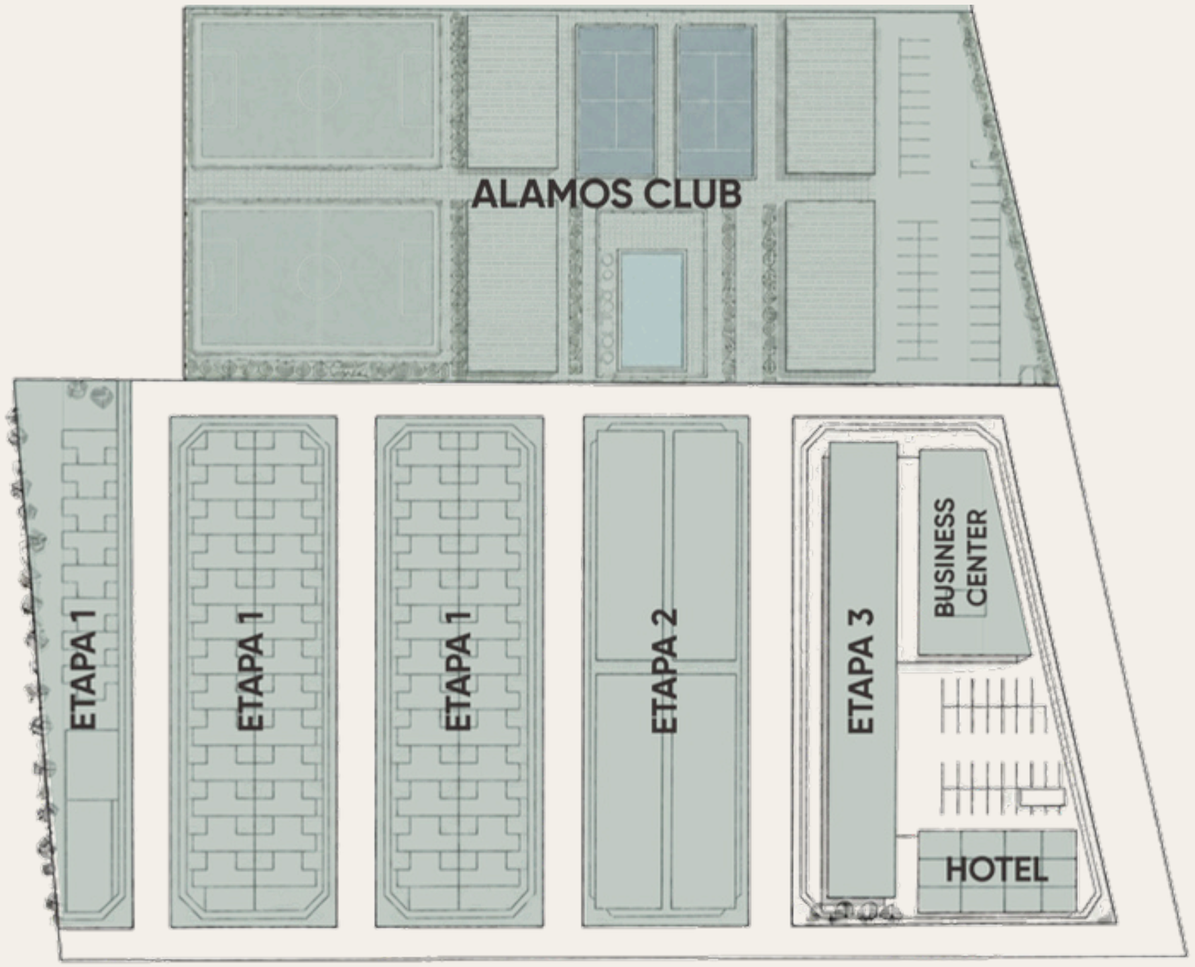

Housing demand in the area is high, driven by 30,000 oil workers on site every day, while only 9,000 units are currently occupied.

EXPONENTIAL GROWTH

The number of people working in the area is expected to rise to 90,000 over the next 5 years, signaling significant growth potential.

02
ALAMOS

Álamos is a residential community in Vaca Muerta designed to provide housing services to companies engaged in unconventional oil and gas exploration.

It is located in Añelo, Neuquén, on Route 17, km 158.15, on a 2-hectare lot with 11,000 m^2 under construction.

In an area with high real estate demand and exponential growth, Álamos is a major opportunity for investors.

IMPORTANT INFORMATION

HOW DO I PURCHASE A UNIT AT ÁLAMOS?

Units are purchased through a purchase and sale agreement. A deed of delivery of possession is signed and the title is then deeded. The future owner may sign this document in Neuquén, Córdoba, Buenos Aires, Rafaela or Rosario.

WHO WILL LIVE IN THE ÁLAMOS UNITS?

Álamos homes are designed to house employees of companies operating in the area. Leases are signed with the companies, which send their workers to live on site temporarily.

WHAT DOES THE MANAGEMENT TRUST DO?

The Management Trust prepares the monthly statement and transfers the rental income to investors. It also handles leasing the units to companies operating in the area, keeps the units clean, maintains order on site, pays the applicable taxes and provides the required services, such as internet, cleaning and security.

HOW IS THE INCOME DETERMINED?

A monthly settlement details all of the Trust's income and expenses, resulting in the income to be distributed. Each Settlor receives a percentage of that total based on the units acquired and assigned to the Rental Pool.

HOW AND WHEN AM I PAID?

We pay by bank transfer to the account designated by the investor. We send the monthly statement within the first 5 business days and make the transfer on the Friday following the statement.
